Head of School Message

Thank you to all the parents who were able to attend our open afternoon this week. The children loved sharing their classroom with you.

We will let you know when our next open afternoon is ASAP. For those who weren't able to attend you are always welcome to come in and see how the new classrooms are looking. Parents evenings are also not that far off so check out the dates for the diary!

Have a lovely weekend

Learning Spotlight

The children went to visit the Jurt Jackson gallery this week in St Just. The building was a very calm and inspiring space and they were fascinated by the incredible works of art on display. After looking for signs of nature in his pieces, they then worked in small groups to build sculptures to represent the balance between human and nature, all linked to their work on fair trade in Geography.

They shared the museum with members of the public who commented on how delightful and respectful the children were. Our host at the museum had never run a workshop for an entire school and she was really impressed with how the children supported each other and worked as teams, finding it a really positive model of teaching and learning.

If you ever are in St Just, it is definitely worth a visit!
